2005 Large-Format Bookings Yearbook

Films and bookings of 2004

In 2004 the average length of LF bookings dropped by more than ten percent over 2003's average, the sharpest drop in six years. The average booking last year ran 184 days, down by 22 days from 2003's average of 206 days, and more than 100 days shorter than the average in 1997, the first year we studied.

Chart 1 below depicts the downward trend of the last eight years. The solid line shows the average length (in days) of bookings that started in the given month, and the dashed line shows the number of bookings that were counted in that average.

Table 1 below shows the average bookings lengths for each year since we started publishing and, as in previous years, updates and corrects data from previous reports. Every month we collect bookings data from distributors and theaters. This year's report is calculated from some 835 bookings for which we had precise start and end dates, as well as on a historic record that includes more than 8,700 records. (See the note on page 5 for details of our statistical methods.)

Booking Started in	Average Length	% change	Number Counted
1997	287		278
1998	246	-14.3	428
1999	234	-4.9	482
2000	218	-6.8	655
2001	214	-1.8	861
2002	220	2.8	940
2003	206	-6.4	1,010
2004	184	-10.7	835

Reasons for the decline

As we have reported in previous Bookings Yearbooks, one reason for the shortening of bookings from the late 1990s through 2001 was the increasing tendency of theaters to book more films at once. Record numbers of new films were available, commercial theaters were on the rise, and institutional theaters began to break out of their long habit of running only one or two films at a time, each for six months or more.

The number of new films introduced each year has consistently been greater than those that leave active distribution, so the choices available to theater managers have steadily increased, as shown in Table 2.

Year	Films in release	New films
1997	84	9
1998	90	6
1999	104	15
2000	107	12
2001	110	12
2002	122	21
2003	123	14
2004	130	11

Of the 317 theaters represented in the 2004 count, 58, or nearly 20%, showed ten or more films last year. At the other end of the spectrum, slightly more (61) only showed one title all year. But as Table

But the most important factor in shortening bookings has been the introduction of Hollywood films to LF screens, starting in 2000 with Fantasia/2000 and several other repurposed animated films from Disney. Two and a half years later, Imax Corporation launched its DMR process with Apollo 13: The IMAX Experience, which has been followed by seven titles more to date, with two more announced for later this year.

Hollywood model vs. LF model

Hollywood studios spend $63 million on average to make a feature — more than ten times the budget of an average LF film — and may spend another $30 million or more on a national marketing campaign that will include television, radio, and print advertising.

The Hollywood model is front-loaded: spend big and launch big, and hope for a big return from theaters as quickly as possible. The studios handle all the marketing, theaters nearly none. Most of these films are expected to do 50% of their business in the first two or three weeks in theaters, then cycle through an international release window, home video, cable, and broadcast, all in as little as 12 or 18 months.

LF filmmakers have taken a completely different approach to releasing and marketing their films. It is a matter of scale: the total number of LF theaters worldwide – 368 – is roughly 1% of the number of conventional screens in the U.S. alone. Since national marketing campaigns are not feasible, the films roll out slowly, over months or years. The theaters are largely responsible for their own marketing, and they have developed extensive relationships with local media partners and sponsors to help them reach their audiences. LF films remain in theatrical distribution for 4.7 years on average, compared with about three months for 35mm features.

The two business models have worked for their respective constituencies, but as the two worlds have merged, conflict has arisen.

Independent LF producers have not significantly benefited from the recent growth in multiplex LF theaters.

To the extent that standalone and institutional theaters have accepted Hollywood product, the producers have been squeezed even harder.

Multiplexes vs. institutions

As we pointed out in last year's Yearbook, shorter bookings don't necessarily mean lower revenues for the theater or the producer, if the same number of people come in two months as would otherwise come in six. But this is only possible when a major marketing effort drives them to the theaters, something, as we've seen, that is not usually possible for independent LF filmmakers.

Given a choice of quick money or slow money, the commercial chains have predictably taken the former. Among the eight North American chains with LF theaters, only two — Cinemark USA and Jack Loeks Theatres — have made the effort to build audiences for traditional LF films. The rest show only DMR films in their LF theaters, switching to the latest hot film in 35mm between times.

This is an option that standalone commercial operators generally don't have. Furthermore, some are blocked from showing DMR films by the chains' use of "clearance" (see LF Examiner, December 2004). For these reasons, standalones generally show a mix of traditional LF and Hollywood fare.

Some institutional theaters have followed the same path, mixing in DMR films (usually in the evenings) with mission-oriented LF films in the daytime. But they are a minority: less than one third of all institutional theaters showed a Disney animated film and only 15% have shown DMR titles.

All this means that independent LF producers have not significantly benefited from the recent growth in multiplex LF theaters. And to the extent that the commercial standalone and institutional theaters have accepted Hollywood product, the producers have been squeezed even harder.

Chart 2 on page 4 shows how 30 selected films of the last seven years have done in the various types of theater, commercial standalone, multiplex, and institutional. (Theme parks are too small a segment to be meaningfully depicted here.) The films are ranked, left to right, by decreasing percentage of institutional bookings. For example, looking at Jane Goodall's Wild Chimpanzees on the far left, 85% of its 75 bookings were in museums and science centers, and the remainder were in standalone theaters. At the other end, only 10 of Robots' 76 bookings (13%) were in institutions.

Market penetration

Table 5 on page 5 shows the market penetration data we began reporting in last year's Yearbook. A word about the numbers and how they were reached.

Calculating the percentage of possible theaters a given film has reached is complicated by several factors, the primary one being the multiple film formats embraced under the "large-format" rubric. Since not all films are distributed in 8/70, and even fewer are printed to 10/70, it would be inappropriate to count those theaters against a film's potential market. Also, older films that are no longer active had a smaller universe of theaters available to them.

So to calculate penetration, we took the starting date of each film's latest (or last) booking, and counted the number of theaters open on that date. (This ensures that each film is measured against the actual number of theaters it could have reached by the end of its active life.) Penetration is the number of theaters that booked the film divided by the total number of theaters open at that time. If the film was distributed in 8/70 and/or 10/70, theaters with those formats are counted in the All Bookings total. We also present columns that show penetration in 15/70 theaters only, 8/70 theaters only, and both 8/70 and 15/70 (but not 10/70). The top 20 films released since 1997 are shown in each column. (Before 1997 our bookings data are incomplete.)

Measuring penetration naturally favors older films that have had a chance to work their way through the worldwide circuit of LF theaters. Recently released films will rarely have as high a penetration number as older titles.

Because it covers a relatively long timeframe, this year's table has not significantly changed since last year. Familiar titles remain at the top of the lists: Everest, Mysteries of Egypt, T-Rex, Space Station, although their order has shifted a bit. Last year Everest topped three of the four lists; this year it is in second place on all of them, and Mysteries of Egypt holds three first places. The somewhat dated nature of Everest, in contrast to Mysteries' more timeless quality, could explain the latter's improvement. However, Everest is still the box office champ, with over $130 million in grosses since its 1998 opening. But Mysteries is not far behind, with $108 million.

The biggest improvement was for Shackelton's Antarctic Adventure, which jumped significantly in every category: a remarkable nine places in 8/70 theaters and five places in each of the remaining three columns. The Human Body also made substantial jumps in rank in all four columns.

Four new films appear in at least one list: Bugs!, NASCAR 3D, and Adrenaline Rush, and Jane Goodall's Wild Chimpanzees. The Lion King remains the Hollywood film with the best penetration, although its rank among all bookings is unchanged. Two other Disney films appear on the lists, and The Matrix Revolutions is the only DMR title.

Films and distributors

In something of a surprise upset, Bugs! had the greatest number of bookings in 2004, with 86, just edging out Polar Express and NASCAR, with 84 and 81 bookings, respectively. (See page 24 for the complete list.) Of 2004's top ten films, half were 40-minute non-fiction films, four were DMR, and one, Santa Vs. the Snowman, was something of a hybrid.

Made on a budget of $9 million, Bugs! has grossed $22 million in two years of release, which probably puts it close to breaking even. In contrast, the number two film, Polar Express, which reportedly cost more than $150 million to make, probably cost just under $9 million to be converted to IMAX 3D, and has grossed $45 million in 81 IMAX theaters in just over three months. At a 50% royalty rate, it has probably earned the studio at least $15 million in profits.

Chart 2

Bookings Count by Theater Type

Sorted by Percentage of Institutional Bookings

This epitomizes the distinction between the models of traditional LF and DMR films: the tortoise and the hare. Despite slower pace, the performance of Bugs! has clearly pleased producers Jonathan Barker and Phil Streather and sponsor Terminix, who have been talking about making Bugs 2.

Table 7 on page 6 shows the performance of distributors over the past seven years. In 2004, Imax Corporation once again had the greatest number of films in distribution and the highest number of bookings. For the first time, a Hollywood studio came in second, as Warner, with three films and 235 bookings, edged out Destination Cinema, which had 229 bookings of 12 films.

nWave Pictures was fourth, with 152 bookings of nine films, followed by MacGillivray Freeman Films, with 123 bookings of 14 films.

Note

The average booking lengths referred to in this article were calculated by combining contiguous listings (which are shown as separate entries in our regular bookings lists) and excluding from the count

- Bookings that started before the year being averaged;
- Films for which we did not have precise start and end dates;
- Film festival screenings;
- School bookings (films shown irregularly to school groups, but which are not on the regular public schedule);
- Certain destination films with extremely long runs at their home theaters;
- Bookings in theaters that opened after Jan. 1, 2004.

This left 835 records from which we calculated the average booking lengths in days, based on the starting date of the booking.

Acknowledgements

LF Examiner's bookings data would be substantially less complete without the nearly universal cooperation of the LF industry's distributors. I would like to extend special thanks to the following individuals who cheerfully and promptly supply me with data every month.

Bookings: 2004 by Film

1,814 bookings of 129 films at 317 theaters

The data on the following pages are not warranted to be comprehensive or accurate in every detail, despite our best efforts to make them so. They have been compiled from surveys of LF theaters, distributors, the world wide web, and other sources.

We will make every effort to improve the thoroughness, accuracy, and usefulness of these data. If your theater or film is not shown here, please get in touch with us to update our listings.

Where a date is not shown, it means that no date was provided by the source or, in the case of a closing date, that no date has been set, or that the run is indefinite.

The key to film abbreviations is on page 24.
